

Federal Bureau of Investigation Field Office is Under Construction

The Federal Bureau of Investigation Field Office in Louisville, Kentucky is under construction. Harris Development, LLC, owner and developer, and Rees Associates, Inc., architecture, planning and interior designer, expect the project to be complete in 2009.

The 108,000 square foot, three story office building, two story parking garage and associated annex is designed to reflect the traditional style architecture of surrounding Louisville. It is also designed to be expandable in the future up to 30% while maintaining functionality and security features.

The facility will be submitted for LEED Silver Certification upon completion of construction.

Click here to learn more about other Justice Architecture Projects